

Good afternoon Parents,

What a crazy week! I'm so happy everybody was able to make it today and your kids did an AWESOME job on their "homework"! Yay!

Dorothy is now also in the company of the lion and the tin woodman. They have been faced with some dangerous obstacles in the woods already and things seem to be getting crazier as the story goes on. We've had some pretty interesting discussions and questions about having to choose between bravery, a heart, or brains, if we were the lion in this situation what would you do, and more. That got us talking a lot about morals and values. Ask your child what the moral was to the chapter they listened to the other day!

We are continuing our weather exploration and this week we learned a bit more about climate change and clouds. Did your child talk to you about their partner project/presentation?

And last, but not least, I wanted to make sure this email finds all of you before the end of the day because I'm sure your child will be coming home with some questions about babies! I'm happy to announce my husband and I are expecting our first this June and I am so excited to share this with your children!

Have a great weekend and see you all Monday:)

-Ms. Anna
