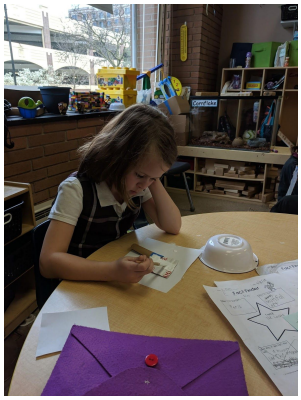
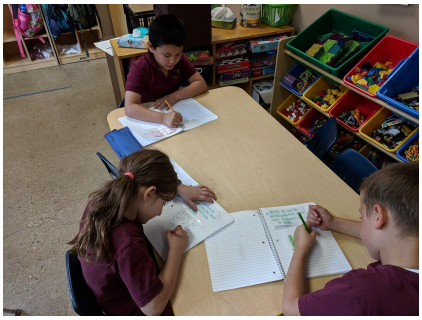
Dear Parents,

I hope you're enjoying your long weekend! Please see below for a couple highlights from the week.

- Starting on Monday and throughout the week, we started creating our France buildings and other representations of what we have learned while researching the country. This took the majority of our week! I love that each time we pulled out our building supplies there was a cheer from the classroom. I also had some students ask "Do we HAVE to go to recess? Can we just keep building?" They are so invested in their work and are creating something they are very proud of. We can't wait to show you the final products!





- Also throughout the week, we have been finishing our area gallery walks with Ms. Bia's class. We are excited to see what our next math challenge will be with our buddies. Our daily challenges, journals, and reading out new Cornflake book we wrote kept us busy during any building breaks. Not to mention the beautiful weather this week meant outdoor open gym and outdoor lunch.
