

Hard to believe this was our final full week for the 2019-2019 school year and what a year it has been:))))))

This week, we took our final visit of the year to the library and returned the last bunch of our books:(Hopefully though, this does not mean the last visit to the library, ANY library, for your child! I encourage you all to take advantage of your local library's events during the summer such as reading programs, storytelling/writing workshops, special musical guests, etc. I will be sending home a list of age-appropriate recommended books your child can read over the summer, too.

Our butterflies emerged! We actually were super lucky and even got to see one happening LIVE! I was very proud to hear just how much we remembered from last year about painted lady butterflies and the metamorphosis process. It was especially cool to see how tiny a caterpillar starts out (basically a dot) and how it grows and then completely changes into something else. We released them on Thursday.

With the year coming to an end, we have been reflecting on our successes, our challenges, our favorites, and our goals for the next school year. Our final writing activity for this year is a reflection piece to ourselves. Your child has been thinking deeply about what to include. After all, it was an eventful year! Look for these in their folders next week and ask them what their plan to achieve their goals is!

Everyone had such an awesome time at our annual Plato picnic Wednesday! HUGE thank you to Elena's dad for making and donating individual snack packs with cheese, fruit, crackers, oreos, and juice boxes.

Reminders:

- FIELD DAY TUESDAY! All students should be wearing their field day t-shirts and gym shorts! MAKE SURE YOUR CHILD HAS A REUSABLE WATER BOTTLE! It's going to be HOT and we'll be running around outside for two hours...must.stay.hydrated.
- No school Monday. Happy Memorial Day everybody!
- Make sure your child has the right colored shirt for the program next Friday. If you aren't sure or have any questions, please contact me.

That's all for this week! Have a FABULOUS long weekend and see you all Tuesday for our LAST WEEK OF SCHOOL!!

-Ms. Anna
